DETAILED ACTION

This Office action is in response to the applicant's Response received 6/14/04 (Paper No.

3). Applicant's remarks have been fully considered, with the results set forth as follows.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action mailed 3/12/04.

Claim 9 stands rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Suzuki (U.S. Patent No. 6,344,836) as recited in paragraphs 3 and 4, pages 2 and 3 of the prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-8 and 10-15 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Suzuki (U.S. Patent No. 6,344,836) in view of Manne (U.S. Patent No. 5,949,522) as recited in paragraphs 5 and 6, pages 3 and 4 of the prior Office action.

Response to Arguments

3. Regarding claim 9, Applicant argues that the prior art, the Suzuki's invention does not teach: (i) the applicant's claimed system, which is directed to a system for altering the appearance of an interior space; (ii) the system comprising a plurality of primary speakers; at least two speakers are positioned proximate to each of the plasma display screens; and (iii) the audio data associated with a particular video image displayed on a particular plasma display screen are transmitted to the at least two speakers. Examiner disagrees because of the following reasons: (i) In response to applicant's argument that Suzuki does not teach a system for altering the appearance of an interior space, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963); (ii) Suzuki teaches clearly a plurality of primary speakers 33 (figs. 1 and 3), each comprising at least two speakers positioned proximate to each of the display screens 20 and 30 (fig. 1); and (iii) video and audio data associated with a plurality of images such as landscapes, aquarium, etc...displayed on the screen are transmitted from the system device 10 for viewing and listening, see figs. 5-7; col. 7, lines 40-59; and col. 8, lines 61-65. Therefore claim 9 stands rejected.

4. Regarding claims 1-8 and 10-15, Applicant argues that the prior art, the Suzuki-Manne combination is improper because of: (i) the cited references do not provide a suggestion or motivation to combine or modify the references as suggested by the examiner, (ii) Suzuki does not express any suggestion or motivation to use a scent generator in providing an information browsing systems; and (iii) Manne teaches away from Applicant's invention because Manne teaches a personal scent delivery system rather than a scent delivery system that disperses scents to large interior spaces. Examiner disagrees because of the following reasons: (i) the motivation for combining the references has been specifically identified in the prior Office action as follows: "because this would provide an olfactory virtual reality system capable of simulating ...for alternating the appearance of an interior space for effectively attracting and interfacing with inspectors or viewers, ...Manne, col. 2, lines 44-47; (ii) the Manne's reference, NOT the Suzuki's reference, is relied upon for the teaching of using a scent generator (39) for dispensing a scent associated with a video image displayed on a display screen in response to a signal from the computer (37); and (iii) It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the scent generator as taught by Manne to be modified to disperse scents to the air or an interior space instead to the wearer's nose. The rejections of the claims 1-8 and 10-15 are therefore maintained.

Conclusion

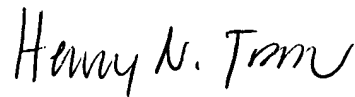

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
